ABOUT RASHTRIYA SAMAJ VIGYAN PARISHAD (RSVP)

Rashtriya Samaj Vigyan Parishad (RSVP) founded in 2008, duly registered in New Delhi under the Societies Registration Act 1860, is a national scholarly association devoted to the cause of understanding and Indigenization of the social sciences in consonance with classical Indian thought and philosophy. After a thorough introspection by more than 100 Indian Social Scientists in Rambhau Mahalaji Prabodhini, Mumbai in 2008, it was observed that despite several decades of independence from colonialism 'intellectual servitude' still permeates the academic sphere of our country. Whether it is economics or sociology, history or politics, the predominance of Eurocentric premises, assumptions and philosophical postulates have led to a large scale imitation in teaching and research, which often are irrelevant to Indian socio-cultural realities. Unfortunately, despite India's rich tradition of indigenous knowledge, the concepts of social sciences and the ideas related to various disciplines apparently exhibit a total disconnect with it. Indian values, philosophy and culture are scarcely reflected in the subjects of social sciences and consequently social sciences have not succeeded in fostering a spirit of national pride. Therefore, it was resolved to create Rashtriya Samaj Vigyan Parishad (RSVP) in order to address these issues through a proper reorientation of social sciences which could cater to the structural dynamics and functional subtleties of Indian society in particular and the world at large. Ever since, Rashtriya Samaj Vigyan Parishad (RSVP) has been engaging seriously in augmenting the reversal of the analytical gaze, which hitherto has been from the west to the east and normally privileges the former. In its attempt to strengthen the indigenization base of social sciences in India, Rashtriya Samaj Vigyan Parishad (RSVP) has been organizing conferences, seminars, workshops, symposia for intellectual stimulation across the country. Rashtriya Samaj Vigyan Parishad (RSVP) engages in nurturing collection, interpretation, analysis and dissemination of social science resources and also promotes scholarship to galvanize the nation building process. Linking social science knowledge effectively to public policies and local needs in order to improve the quality of life, is also its major purported aim.

ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

Treasured and rich social scientific insights integrated into India's knowledge tradition are in abundance with distinct conceptual categories and theoretical formulations offering an enormous site for cultural exploration. Such an unparalleled thesaurus of knowledge focussed on multiple forms of diversity requires concerted efforts to understand the complexity, cumulative historical realities and concrete modes of difference present in this vast societal system. Efforts of this nature are to be rooted in methodological, conceptual, historical and reflexive interactions of wide-ranging learned minds. The present National Conference intends to take a leap step in this vital national task.

OBJECTIVES

While critiquing the dominance of Western perspectives in the misinterpretation and misrepresentation of the Indian social-scientific thoughts making us incapable of constructing cognitive alternatives, it is important for us to examine our own knowledge tradition. Need for getting out of the "colonial mind-set" in understanding our own culture is the primary prerequisite to develop our own indigenous social scientific paradigms; the next and equally important complementary step is to develop terms, concepts, theories and perspectives – an inclusive methodological approach to Indian society - which are truthful representations of our social philosophy that directs Bharatiya collective life.
